

“The most significant combination of Judaic art and sports ever created . . . ”

A CELEBRATION OF JEWS IN BASEBALL Lunchtime Program

SPECIAL GUEST
ADAM GREENBERG (via Skype)
Former Chicago Cub Player

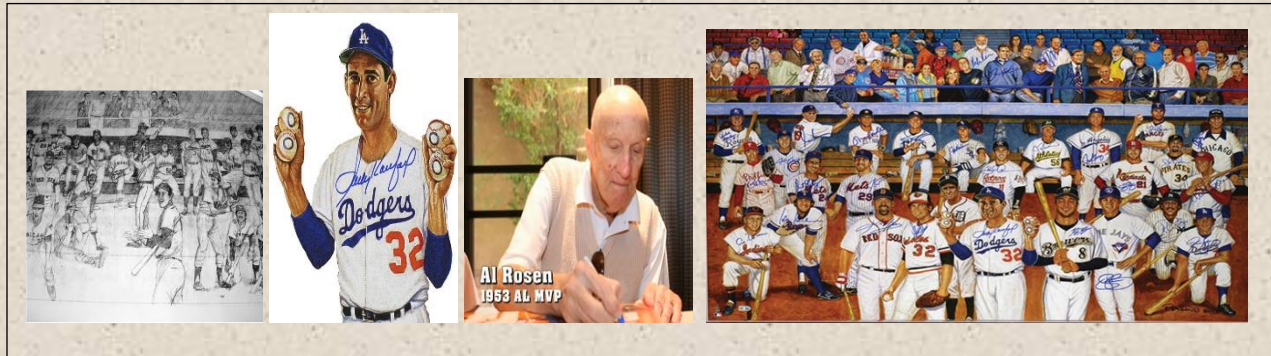

THE PROGRAM

I am an attorney in Chicago. I spent 3 years creating the iconic “Jewish Baseball Players” Artwork pictured here. I speak around the country about the story behind its creation and Jews in Baseball generally. Often times, one or more of the Jewish ballplayers is part of the program. I have spoken in Chicago at law firms and other businesses. (References at bottom).

Generally, the program is used as the main event for a fundraiser for Jewish organizations, or used by businesses to promote morale internally and entertain clients. The cost of the program can be up to $50,000 depending on the ballplayers attending. (Don’t stop reading as cost for you is nominal).

This program is a really small, informal version, of our normal event. It is a fantastic way to entertain your clients for virtually no cost. We suggest you provide a “ballpark lunch” of hot dogs, chips, and cracker jacks as others have done.

"The most significant combination of Judaic art and sports ever created . . . "

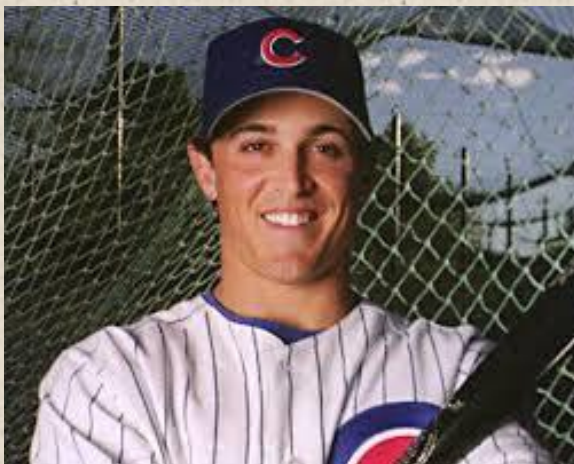

THE MAKING OF THE ARTWORK STORY

Here's a link to a brief story of the making of the artwork with ballplayer testimonials.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=TnBFmjuBXu0>

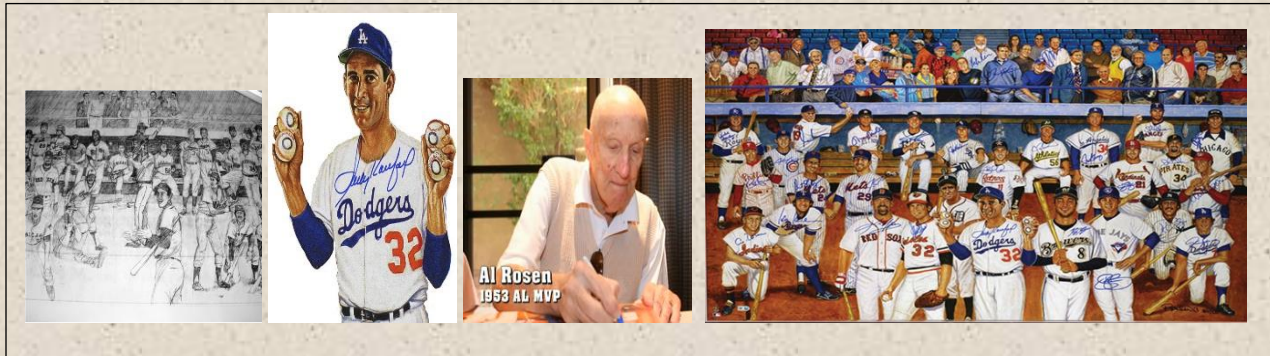

THE ADAM GREENBERG STORY

After years and years of hard work to get to the Major Leagues, Adam stepped up to the plate for his first at bat with the Cubs in 2005. He pinch hit and waited for the first pitch, a fastball, from the pitcher.

Tragedy occurred. Adam was the only player ever in baseball history to be injured and forced out of the game on the very first pitch he ever saw.

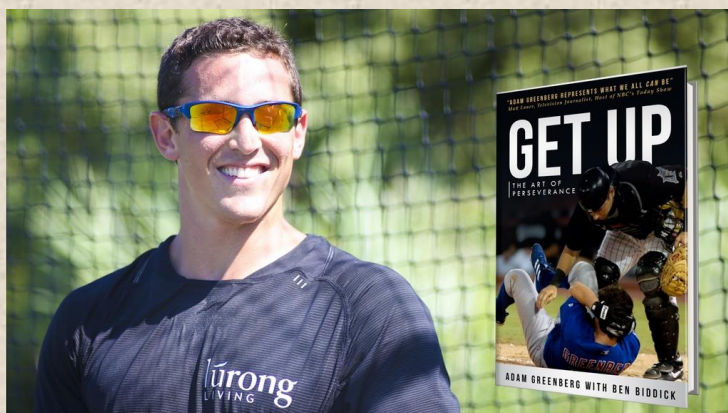

“The most significant combination of Judaic art and sports ever created . . . ”

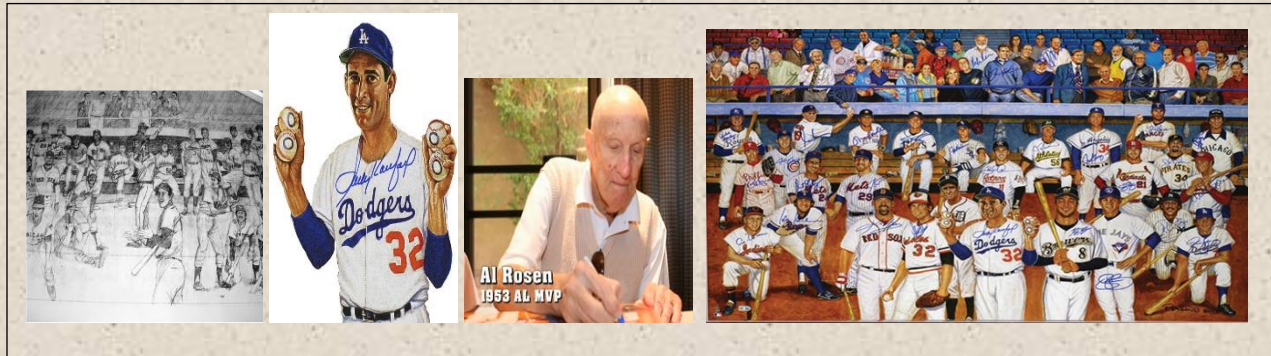

Fast forward 7 long years of even more agonizing work. Matt Liston, a documentary filmmaker, started fighting for Adam to help get him his second chance. And in 2012, he finally got it. See his compelling story here.

<http://jewishbaseballplayer.com/one-at-bat/>

Adam just released his new book, Get Up / The Art of Perseverance.

“The most significant combination of Judaic art and sports ever created . . . ”

PROGRAM INCLUDES THE FOLLOWING:

- Appearance by Adam Greenberg via Skype (Tells his story, answers questions)
- Presentation by Greg Harris (Tells story of “Making of Artwork”)
- 10 Copies of Adam’s book, Get Up, autographed for your guests. ($500 Value) Extra books available.
- 3 of the 100 Limited Edition Adam Greenberg pieces to provide to random guests or big clients. (Pictured here). ($2,400 Value) Extras available.
- $150 gift certificate for all attendees to be used towards Limited Edition Adam Greenberg pieces

COST TO THE LAW FIRM

Option #1

All of the above, which includes $3,000 in product, along with experience of the program, and thousands of dollars in gift certificates. Total cost to the firm is $2,500.

Option #2

All of the above, with an addition of 1 of the 100 Series 1 Originally Hand Signed Limited Edition pieces. The piece is hand signed by all 26 players including Sandy Koufax, licensed and certified authentic by Major League Baseball, and retails for $6,700. With the above program, the firm can add the piece to the package for $3,000 extra, or 55% off.

Contact Greg Harris at 847-924-6140 (cell)

www.JewishBaseballPlayer.com
312-374-3394

“The most significant combination of Judaic art and sports ever created . . . ”

References:

Law Firm

Alexander D. Marks

Burke, Warren,
MacKay & Serritella,
P.C.

330 N. Wabash, 21st
Floor | Chicago, IL
60611
Phone 312.840.7022 |
Fax 312.840.7900
amarks@burkelaw.com

Executive Club

Elizabeth Ziola
Director of Membership and Club Events

The Standard Club

320 South Plymouth
Court
Chicago, IL 60604
Direct Line:
312.408.2819

Corporate Event

Brian Garelli

Preferred Capital Funding

368 W. Huron
Chicago, IL 60654
312-212-5000
Brian@pcfcash.com